FR. DURSO RESIGNS; FR. PILGRAM TO BE PRINCIPAL

by Joe Kucharski
This week, Rev. Michael H. Durso, SJ announced that he would be resigning from his post as Principal of St. Louis U. High--a move which will be finalized sometime this summer. At the same time, the Board of Trustees announced that Rev. Paul C. Pilgram, presently Academic Assistant Principal, would become the new principal.

Fr. Durso stated that his reasons to leave the principal's post and return to classroom teaching were twofold. First, he explained that he no longer had the physical or mental energy that the principal's job required. Second, he feels that he would like classroom teaching more than being principal.

In a Prep News interview Fr. Pilgram stated that he was looking forward to his new job and hopes that it will be a good experience for both him and the student body. Fr. Pilgram said that as principal he would try to "continue to carry on growth toward a Christian community, and see what we have to do to make it better."

BILLS SPLIT BEFORE STATE

by Jim Blase

The Jr. Bills made a victorious trip to Althoff last Friday night as they edged the Crusaders 50-47 to take the Bi-State Crown. Going into the game both teams stood at 6-1 in conference play, with SLUH's only loss coming to DeSmet. From the start it was obvious that it was going to be a typical Illinois type game. Fouls would play a major role. At one point in the game the Bills had 9 fouls to none for Althoff. Nonetheless the Bills had the lead at half 28-26. Both teams used stiff defense to keep the score down. At the 3rd quarter the score was tied 38 all. The Bills seemed to be running away with the game in the fourth quarter as they built up a 7 pt. lead with just a minute left to play. But the Crusaders refused to give up as they narrowed the lead to 2 points. But the Bills managed to run out the clock. Chris Kirksey was hot from outside, scoring 12 pts in the victory.

Saturday night, before a larger than normal crowd, the Bills were the victims of a 76-69 defeat at the hands of the Kirkwood Pioneers. Throughout the game, the Bills were forced to play Kirkwood's fast paced type of game. Halfway through the last quarter the score was tied, 61-61. The Kirkwood shooters on a hot streak in the last few minutes to come away with a victory in the final regular season game.

BEES SPLIT OVER WEEKEND

by Jim Offner

Last weekend, the B-Basketball team split the 2 games they played. On Friday night, the Bees went to Althoff for their final Bi-State conference game of the season. They won that game 57-49. Shooting was a big factor in the win as the Bills hit 50% of their shots. The Bees ran the ball well, had some fast breaks, and handled the good Althoff press.

The team started off slow, trailing early 8-2, but after they broke out on top, they stayed there. Tim Hill led the scoring with 27 pts.

On Saturday, the Bees took on the Kirkwood Pioneers, losing 54-50. Again the Bills shot 50% from the field, but Kirkwood hit on 70% of their shots. The B-team played a good game on the boards and halted the Pioneer press. The crucial point of the game occurred when with 2:20 left, they could not increase their two point lead. Hill led the scoring for the Bills with 19 pts. Jim Paino had 10.

Three players on the team have not been recognized by the paper. They are: Kieth Shannon, Bob Pickel, and Ron McKinnis.

OUTWARD BOUND?

by Mr. Marchand

People say the American frontier is gone, and it's true. But other frontiers still remain. A program called Outward Bound lets you explore one of those frontiers--yourself. Outward Bound puts you in a primitive outdoor setting, teaches you general survival techniques, and then a specific skill like mountaineering, sailing, or whitewater canoeing. The idea of Outward Bound is to push you out to your own personal limits, and to find out that you're capable of doing and enduring a lot more than you thought. This Friday, March 1, at 3:10 in room 223, Mr. Clark Russell, St. Louis Outward Bound representative, will talk about the OB program and show a spectacular half hour movie. Come around and see what Outward Bound is about. For other information, see Mr. Marchand.
